

DISS

Disciplines and Ideas in the Social Sciences

Grade 12, Semester 1 study outline

A summary of section headings and key terms, made by students for revision. It is not the handout and does not replace it.

01. The Nature and History of Social Science and its Difference from Natural Science and Humanities

I. Introduction

In the quest of mankind to search for the truth and satisfy its curiosity in understanding world phenomena,

II. Nature and Definition of Social Science

From the term itself, Social Science has two major elements: society (social) and empirical analysis (science).

III. History of Social Science

How did this science come about? Who were the people responsible for the development of this essential

IV. Differentiating the Three Major Areas of Study

How do we differentiate between Natural Science, Humanities, and Social Science?

Key terms

Social Science - formally defined as an academic discipline and a branch of science that deals with the institutions

02. The Branches of Social Sciences and its Importance

I. Introduction

As a person who is part of human society and smaller, more specific societies or communities, like the Filipino

II. Branches of Social Science

Greek: Anthoropos (human) + logos (the study of) = "the study of humans"

III. Why is Social Science important to learn?

Key terms

Part of studying Law - discipline of Political Science, which is also described in this section

03. Social Science Research and the Scientific Method

I. Introduction

In the previous lessons, we already learned about Social Science, its nature, elements, and various branches. We

II. Research and the Scientific Method

Research is defined as the systematic investigation and study of and into observed phenomena in order to

III. Scientific Research Process

How do we do scientific research? There are many versions of the research process, but generally, they all follow

Key terms

Research - defined as the systematic investigation and study of and into observed phenomena in order to

04. Types of Research Methods

I. Introduction

Previously, we have realized the importance of doing research in guiding us in our journey to get closer to

II. Types of Research

Key terms

Although it - not required, we are highly encouraged to utilize the Scientific Method in doing our research for us

05. Basic Concepts and Principles of Structural-Functionalism

I. Introduction

As defined in the previous lesson, the goal of research is to hypothesize theories and recognize scientific laws to

II. History and Development of Structural Functionalism

- Structural Functionalism originated from the works of English philosopher and biologist, Hebert Spencer

III. Major Concepts of Structural Functionalism

- Also known as Structural-Functional Theory or simply, Functionalism

III. Some Applications of Structural Functionalism Theory

- The government provides healthcare, education, and other services to families. In return, these families

Key terms

Manifest functions - consequences of a social process that are anticipated or expected

Latent functions - unexpected consequences of a social process. Latent functions can be

06. Basic Concepts and Principles of Marxism

I. Introduction

Previously, we have discussed Structural Functionalism, which focuses on how society and its parts work together

II. History and Development of Marxism

- Marxism originated from the works of German philosopher and economist, Karl Marx (1818-1883).

III. Major Concepts of Marxism

- Marxism is a method of socioeconomic analysis that analyzes material conditions and economic

IV. Applications of Marxism

- Case studies on programs on just and equal distribution of goods and resources

07. Basic Concepts and Principles of Symbolic Interactionism

I. Introduction

In the lesson today, we will be discussing the last of the 3 major Social Science theories: Symbolic Interactionism.

II. History and Development of Symbolic Interactionism

- Symbolic interaction was greatly influenced by the works of American philosopher and sociologist

III. Major Concepts of Symbolic Interactionism

- Also known as Symbolic Interactionist Theory

IV. Applications of Symbolic Interactionism

- A country's flag could be a symbol of hope, peace, war, courage, etc., depending on the interaction or

08. Review of the Basic Concepts and Principles of Major Social Science Theories and Ideas

I. Introduction

For the past 3 lessons, we have discussed 3 major Social Science Theories: Structural-Functionalism, Marxism, and

II. Important Concepts and the Criticism for Major Social Science Theories

1. Structural-Functionalism

Pioneered by Herbert Spencer and further elaborated by Emile Durkheim, Alfred Radcliff-Brown,

2. Marxism

Material and economic conditions (base), particularly modes of production, influence social

3. Symbolic Interactionism

Pioneered by George Herbert Mead, and further elaborated by his student, Herbert Spencer, and

II. Conclusion

In summary, Structural-Functionalism, Marxism, and Symbolic Interactionism each provide

Key terms

Capitalism - exploitative because the rich owners (bourgeoisie) get richer, while the laborers

09. Basic Concepts and Principles of Psychoanalysis

I. Introduction

Social Science, as we have discussed, is an area of study that focuses on all aspects of societies and the

II. History and Development of Psychoanalysis

- Psychoanalysis originated from the works and theories of Austrian neurologist and philosopher, Sigmund

III. Major Concepts of Psychoanalysis

- Psychoanalysis is defined both as a set of psychological theories and a set of therapeutic methods, which

1. Rationalization - justification of an unacceptable behavior

2. Intellectualization - reasoning to block emotional distress

3. Reaction formation - changing unwanted emotions or feelings

4. Acting Out - carrying out extreme behavior

5. Projection - transferring the drive or behavior that causes anxiety to others

6. Dissociation - separating of the memories one can't deal with or doesn't want

7. Compartmentalization - separating part of oneself from awareness of other parts

8. Displacement - transferring of negative emotion from one person or thing

9. Regression - seeking the safety of an earlier development stage

10. Sublimation - diverting intolerable impulse to a socially desirable one

11. Compensation - balancing apparent weakness by accentuating the strength

Key terms

Id - concerned with the instant satisfaction of basic physical needs and urges. It operates entirely

Superego - concerned with social rules and morals. It develops as a child learns what their culture

Ego - concerned with the rational, pragmatic part of your personality. It is less primitive than the id

Defense mechanisms - tactics developed by the ego to protect against anxiety or depression

10. Basic Concepts and Principles of Rational Choice

I. Introduction

As we go through our journey in society, we encounter countless situations daily that require us to choose and

II. History and Development of Rational Choice Theory

- Because decision-making is a very fundamental concept, Rational Choice Theory can be traced back to

III. Major Concepts of Rational Choice Theory

- Also known as Choice Theory or Rational Action Theory

IV. Sample Applications of Rational Choice Theory

- Voter behavior is influenced by which candidates or parties individuals believe will provide them with

Key terms

Completeness - that every action can be compared or ranked with every other. For example

Option A - preferable to Option B, and Option B is preferable to Option C

Transitivity - that if Option A is preferable to Option B and Option B is preferable to Option C

Independence of irrelevant alternatives - that if it has been established that Option A is Perfect Information - that the individual has full and certain information about alternatives or

Choice under uncertainty - that if there is uncertainty between an option and its eventual

Intertemporal Choice - that if the outcomes of certain options affect the individual at different

Limited Cognitive Ability - that analyzing and comparing the options may take time, effort

Types of rewards - social approval, recognition, money, gifts, or positive gestures, like a smile
Types of punishments - opposite, which are social disapproval, humiliation, or negative gestures

11. Basic Concepts and Principles of Institutionalism

I. Introduction

In the past lessons, we have thoroughly discussed how individual experience, behavior, and decision-making

II. History and Development of Institutionalism

- Institutionalism has roots dating back to the Ancient Greek Era in the works of Plato and Aristotle

III. Major Concepts of Institutionalism

- Institutionalism is a new approach that focuses on the study of the institution and its policies, and how

IV. Sample Applications of Institutionalism

- The practice of instilling company or organization's values to individual staff so that everyone will work

Key terms

He himself - considered a modern institutionalist

12. Basic Concepts and Principles of Feminist Theory

I. Introduction

In the lessons that we have discussed so far in the Disciplines and Ideas of Social Sciences, did you notice that there

II. History and Development of Feminist Theory

The history of feminist theory can be divided into three sections:

III. Major Concepts of Feminist Theory

- Rooted in political, cultural or economic movements that advocate equal rights and legal protection for

IV. Sample Applications of Feminist Theory

- Women have the same moral and intellectual capacity as men in the workplace, however, men are

Key terms

Women's personal lives - affected by these sexist power structures

13. Basic Concepts and Principles of Hermeneutical Phenomenology

I. Introduction

In the previous Social Science theories and concepts that we have discussed, we can say that in most cases, the

II. History and Development of Hermeneutical Phenomenology

- In the 18th century, "phenomenology" meant the theory of appearances fundamental to empirical

III. Major Concepts of Hermeneutical Phenomenology

- Hermeneutics - The art of understanding and interpretation of verbal and non-verbal expressions as well

1. Phenomenological epoch

a. The term epoch means suspending the natural attitude towards something, which includes the

2. Eidetic reduction

a. This is the process of reducing one's experience to its essence, which is to look for something that

3. Transcendental reduction

a. This is the process of reducing the meaning of a particular activity to one's experience to

IV. Sample Applications of Hermeneutical Phenomenology

What is the possible intent of the author of the post?

Key terms

Man - very complex. Analyzing and interpreting man's nature and essence will require specialized methods. One

14. Basic Concepts and Principles of Human-Environment Systems

I. Introduction

As the human population around the world continues to increase, our impact on the natural environment also

II. History and Development of Human-Environment Systems

- Studies on the relationship of man and the environment date back to the ancient Greek and muslim

III. Major Concepts of Human-Environment Systems

- System - a collection of components that interact with each other to form an aggregated whole

IV. Sample Applications of Human-Environment Systems

- Extreme deforestation and urbanization of the mountains near Metro Manila resulted in more frequent

15. Review of the Basic Concepts and Principles of Major Social Science Theories and Ideas

I. Introduction

For the past 5 lessons, we have discussed various major Social Science Theories and Ideas. This has provided us

II. Important Concepts and the Criticism for Major Social Science Theories and Ideas

1. Psychoanalysis is defined both as a psychological theory and as a psychological treatment

2. Rational Choice Theory

A very fundamental concept that can be traced to works of various individuals such as Adam Smith

3. Institutionalism

Pioneered by Wilhelm Roscher, and further elaborated by American economists

4. Feminist Theory

First feminist movements started in the United States of America and United Kingdom in the 19th

5. Hermeneutical Phenomenology

A procedure that allows us to objectively reflect on their personal experience to analyze the

6. Human-Environment Systems

Influenced by the Human Ecology Theory of Urie Bronfenbrenner

Key terms

Feminism - "hatred towards man" nor does it promote "women supremacy"

Process - from Phenomenological epoche (suspending the natural attitude), to Eidetic reduction

16. Filipino Thinkers in the 19th Century

I. Introduction

There are different key concepts and ideas in the Social Sciences that are rooted in Filipino languages and

II. JOSE RIZAL (1861-1896)

- The most influential figure of the Revolutionary period was Jose Rizal, who is also our national hero.

III. ANDRES BONIFACIO (1863 - 1897)

- Bonifacio is the founder of the revolutionary society, Kataastaasan, Kagalanggalang Katipunan ng mga

IV. APOLINARIO MABINI (1864 - 1903)

- Apolinario Mabini was known as the "Sublime Paralytic."

V. EMILIO JACINTO (1875 - 1899)

- Emilio Jacinto popularly referred to as the "Brains of the Katipunan" due to significant contributions to

17. Filipino Thinkers in the 20th and 21st Century

I. Introduction

Building upon the ideas and concepts from the great Filipino thinkers during the Revolution, and influenced by the

II. MANUEL L. QUEZON (1878 - 1944)

- Manuel L. Quezon was elected as the 2nd President of the Philippines in 1935, regarded as the "President

III. ISABELO DE LOS REYES (1864 - 1938)

- Isabelo de los Reyes is referred to as the "Father of Filipino Socialism" mainly due to his writing against

IV. CLARO M. RECTO (1890-1960)

- Claro M. Recto was one of the most prominent statesmen of his generation due to the various

V. VIRGILIO ENRIQUEZ (1942 -1994)

- Virgilio Enriquez is considered the Father of Sikolohiyang Pilipino (Indigenous Filipino Psychology) which

Key terms

- Political pragmatism - principle which says that one must fight for a goal, but must proceed
-

18. The Role of Filipino indigenous social ideas to National Development

I. Introduction

In the previous lesson we briefly discussed Sikolohiyang Pilipino also known as Kapwa Psychology. We have

II. History and Development of Sikolohiyang Pilipino

- Developed and formalized under the leadership of Virgilio Enriquez (1942-1994), also known as the Father

III. Basic Concepts and Principles of Filipino Psychology

- KAPWA (shared inner self) is the core construct of Filipino psychology. Kapwa has two categories, ibang